

We are offering a paid Internship (80 - 100% - 6 months)

Location: Zurich (Binz)

Start: September - October 2022

AGILERY is a startup revolutionizing the way food products are manufactured. We get assigned by food brands to implement innovative products quickly and efficiently. We orchestrate a network of manufacturers and suppliers across Europe and leverage the most optimal supply chains at every project scale.

Are you looking to launch your career in food innovation, manufacturing, and supply chain? Behind AGILERY is a team of 10 food professionals looking for a dynamic intern to support their growing operations. It might be you!

THE ROLE – your mission is to bring food innovations to market!

- You are responsible to continuously grow and update our network of manufacturers & suppliers.
- You support the project managers in creating project briefs and client presentations.
- You communicate with stakeholders and support the project manager to get quotations in, do budget calculations and supervise trials.
- You support the project managers in production plannings by orchestrating suppliers and producers.
- You support our new product development team during prototyping sessions (bench preparation, recipe preparations, tastings, nutritional fact calculations etc...).

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS – the superpowers required for your mission

- Passionate about the food & beverage sector
- Bachelor level, preferably in food science or a related scientific field
- Independent, curious and a solution oriented working style with a “can do” attitude
- You like to take ownership/responsibility of your tasks and would describe yourself as a high energy person with attention to details
- Valid Swiss working permit is required
- English is a must, German or French are highly appreciated, any other language is a plus
- Any superpower (know-how, passion) that you can bring is highly appreciated!

WHAT WE OFFER – the rewards for your extraordinary work

- A great team of multi-cultural food professionals to work with and learn from
- A steep learning curve and a hands-on experience in food innovation
- Cutting edge food industry exposure, between trendiest food products, innovative brands, and established manufacturers
- Startup level intern salary
- Potential for a permanent placement after your internship
- Vibrant working place in the middle of Zurich in a co-working space for food start-ups
- Flexible work schedule and remote work opportunities

HOW TO APPLY – join this incredible team!

Interested? Send your CV and a short motivational note through LinkedIn or directly to hello@agilery.ch. You should keep it authentic and practical. We value your direct and honest words more than an elaborated formal letter. Feel free to even submit a short video instead of a cover letter!